All prints are printed on lightweight sheets of aluminum for the fullest, richest experience. Printed on aluminum instead of paper, the photographs contain a richness and depth that prints on photo papers simply cannot match. Nighttime photos particularly shine as metal prints. The shadows remain deep and rich, and the highlights pop. Aluminum prints are lightweight and come ready to hang. Below are a couple different hanging and framing options.

Float Hangars

Float Hangars are the economical way to hang your photographs. These come on the back of the print and are equipped with saw teeth for hanging, and rubber feet at each corner. They keep your image about 1/2 inch from the wall.

Float Frames

A frame always makes an image stronger. With a Float Frame, your metal print floats within a slim, sleek frame, mounted with about 1/4 inch of space between your photograph and the frame itself. Frames can be White or Black, and will be Black if not specified (which I think looks best).

Some images may not work in some of the sizes; for instance, a panorama doesn't work well as a square print, and some images don't look good with even a little cropped off. We will work that out on an individual basis if we need to.
